Hello,

My name is Izabella though I prefer Izzy (as I have been called Izzy my whole life) and I am an Australian high school student living in the Northern Territory. I have one sibling, an older brother living in Queensland with my mother while I live with my father, who works with the local mine, and two Australian Kelpies named Max and Rhino.

My father and I have a good relationship and seeing that this is the first time I have lived with him since I was very young, it's going very well. I live in a fairly small community so participating in a range of activities can be hard but I manage it. On Saturdays, for example I walk both my dogs across town to the dog wash for them to play with the other dogs, socialise with other pet owners and to support the animal shelter. I even volunteer to feed dogs in boarding and for rehoming every Tuesday morning with another lady. I also spend a large amount of Sundays at the schools dungeons and dragons club participating in different campaigns with different kids from school as a way to past time and develop better story telling skills. I try to go to the gym each day if I'm not completely busy with work or homework from school. Though the gym isn't my only source of energy as I like riding my mountain bike around town providing refreshment and fresh air.

I would call myself an excellent student. I set and achieve my goals in most if not all classes. I work hard, wanting to improve myself each time I hand something in. My favourite subjects including English, History and Creative Arts. I hadn't always enjoyed school, especially in my younger years of high school but as I have grown and matured and realised what I wanted to be in the future, what I wanted a career in, I've grown to like it. I've always seemingly been good at school, more often than not being to scared to step out of line or fight back to teachers. At my current school I participate in band with my ukulele.

Over the years I have come to significantly enjoy the art of photography and cinematography and have become passionate about one day pursuing a career out of it. I'm a kind and generous person who has expressed my lavish personality within my school and around my peers. I am a responsible person that loves trying all sorts of activities.
